

Quarterly Report
4th Quarter, 2007
WLFI-TV

Agriculture and Business

The Verasun Corporation stopped production on an ethanol plant in the White County town of Reynolds during the fourth quarter. Reynolds was dubbed “Bio Town USA” by Governor Mitch Daniels in 2006. In Linden, where an ethanol plant opened successfully earlier in the year, residents saw their water rates rise 66%, partially due to infrastructure necessary for the plant’s water needs. The Newton County town of Kentland received positive economic news in the fourth quarter, with the announcement that a water bottling facility would create about 100 jobs.
